

In organizational development, [150] Management orchestrates resources and activities to achieve goals, planning, organizing, leading, and controlling within an organization.

[151] Management System provides a structured framework to streamline these processes, offering tools and guidelines for managerial execution.

Meanwhile, [159] Maturity signifies sophistication within this system, indicating the organization's ability to meet objectives and enhance performance. Effective [150] Management relies on a well-defined [151] Management System, which enhances practices, organizational performance and [159] Maturity.

As maturity increases, management processes refine, leading to greater efficiency, effectiveness, and adaptability, pivotal for organizational success and sustainability.