

[400]IT Strategy guides how technology will be utilized to meet organizational objectives. It's pivotal in driving [410]Digital Transformation, which can lead to [460]Technical Debt, due to poor coding practices accumulated during the transformation. [401]EA establishes the groundwork for new technology, potentially aided by [490] Consultants. [498]Technology Research informs [400]IT strategy by offering insights into emerging technologies.[423]Talent Management ensures the organization possesses the necessary [420]Competence to handle [460]technical debt arising from development. [450]Cloud Service is a technology to consider during development, while [430] Hyperautomation focuses on maximizing process automation, potentially influencing the construction and utilization of new technology.