

An [100] Organization is governed by a [111] Governing Body, which holds the [110] Accountability for the [100] Organization. The [100] Organization has an effect on [104] Stakeholders. The [100] Organization is directed, overseen and held accountable by the processes of [113] Governance, which the [111] Governing Body is responsible for. For these processes, they should consider the interests of all the [104] Stakeholders. This [113] Governance process also ensures that the [100] Organization has some kind of [140] Risk Management, shapes [117] Corporate Culture, and sets an Internal Policy for the [100] Organization. The [100] Organization needs to ensure [130] Compliance to this Internal Policy and to [137] Regulatory Bodies, which are a [104] Stakeholder of the [100] Organization.